

Internet Awareness to CDC Customers

Safety of customers' data is of utmost importance to CDC. To ensure that all your critical and confidential information is secured at all levels, kindly adopt the following safety measures while using the Internet to protect yourself from potential risks:

While using CDC Access Website

- Check for the padlock in the lower right of your browser window (A small lock sign that indicates a secure site).
- The address bar of your internet browser should turn green [which represents a secure website] when you log in to www.cdcaccess.com.pk on Internet Explorer 8.

- Ensure that you are using the latest version of your internet browser.

General Internet Browsing

- Do not copy/cut and paste the link from any email into your internet browser. Phishers can make links appear as if taking you to a certain website, but actually send you to a different website.
- Do not provide any personal information in response to any email messages.
- Ensure that you have an updated antivirus & spyware program and perform regular system scans.
